Because property values are increasing and Hudsonville Public Schools is still eligible to participate in the State's School Loan Revolving Fund, our district can finance previous options with ZERO additional mills in property taxes. Basically, total bond debt is extended into the future, with total mills declining in 2047 instead of in 2032 as presently scheduled. How would you personally vote on a November 7, 2019 ballot to issue in new bonds costing zero additional mills for property tax payers to finance additional space for our growing district enrollment and SOME of the related infrastructure improvements for technology, instructional quality and equity, energy and operational efficiency?

Would you recommend to families to enroll their children in our Hudsonville Public Schools?
